EDUCATION

B.Sc. Computer Science 2013-2016 Reykjavík University
In my second and third year I was a teaching assistant in the courses Programming T-111-PROG and Problem Solving T-114-VERK both taught in C++. For my final project I did an internship at Fraunhofer CESE in Maryland, USA for six months where I worked on various research projects.

Martication Examination 2008-2012 Commercial College of Iceland
Specialization in economics. Extra-curricular activities included: Chairman of the school radio station.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Sigma 2018- Consultant
Currently working for Sigma Embedded Engineering as a consultant at Volvo Group. Here at Volvo I have mostly been working with automation flow of testing and verifying hardware and hardware interaction. Before that I was a consultant for Sigma IT R&D at Toyota Logistic Solutions in Gothenburg. There I was working on a system to optimize transport for self driving vehicles.

QRTECH 2018 Software Developer
Worked at QRTECH in Gothenburg, Sweden for eight months as a developer. There I worked on an automotive research project. The research is about self driving cars trying to find out if there is a possibility using less expensive hardware components for self driving cars and more complex software. This project is written in C++ and uses OpenCV.

LS Retail 2016-2018 Software Developer
At LS Retail I worked as a .NET developer. I worked on various projects there, the two that I put the most time on were developing a Web POS (point of sale system) and an external service for connecting hardware to a web applications. Both of these products were released for the first time while I was working there.
